

Chapter 6 Reflecting as Jem

Student Instructions

Write a diary entry from Jem's perspective. It should be at least 3 paragraphs long and include the following:

A unique voice: Jem's thoughts and expressions should be noticeably different from Scout's narrative style. Consider his older age and deeper insights.

Cover Key Chapter Events:

Start of Chapter: Begin by reflecting on the activities they were engaged in at the chapter's start.

Radley Yard Experience: Elaborate on Jem's adventure in the Radley yard. Focus on his emotional and psychological state during this daring act.

Retrieving Pants: Creatively imagine Jem's experience when he returns for his pants. This detail is not explicitly covered in the book, so use your imagination to fill in the gaps.

Jem's Thoughts in Bed: Conclude with Jem lying in bed, trembling. Ponder over what these feelings mean to him – is it fear, a realization, or a mix of emotions?

Remember, a diary entry is written in the first person. It should be personal and introspective (inward-looking).
